

Bay city council okays sign variance

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Bay St. Louis City Council voted 4-1 Tuesday to approve a sign variance for Bay Cove Casino.

The dissenting vote came from councilman Jim Thriffley, who said he was not comfortable with the idea of the council's approving three possible sites for the sign. Even though approval of the other two sites would end when one particular site is chosen, Thriffley contended that the approval of all three sites could open a door for another company in the future to come in and ask for approval of a large sign on one of the two unselected sites.

The council's vote came after an opportunity for public comment. Franya Ethridge voiced her objection to the variance, claiming that it was applied for improperly and questioning the size of the sign. Ottis Winnard said he thinks the council's approval could set a "dangerous precedent" for a large sign to be put in the downtown historic district.

Other speakers supported the sign and pointed out that there are several large signs in the local area, including the St. Augustine Seminary billboards.

One of three possibilities for the Bay Cove sign was published in the Sunday edition of The Sea Coast Echo. That sign, if used, will be four feet deep, 28½ feet wide and 48 feet high. The original proposal was for a 42-foot-tall sign, but the City Council voted to allow the addition of six feet to compensate for a required setback of 35 feet, as opposed to the 25-foot setback Bay Cove officials requested.

The three possible sites for the sign include the lot where the Shell station is located at the corner of Hwy. 90 and Main Street, the vacant lot next to it, or the old Chevron Station lot at the corner of Hwy. 90 and Blue Meadow Road.

Drugs—"Not" today

Joint efforts of Rotary Clubs, Kmart focus on drug education

BY JANET MCQUEEN

The Bay St. Louis and Diamondhead Rotary Clubs have targeted first through third graders for involvement in a local drug education project.

With assistance from the Waveland Kmart, the clubs distributed white shopping bags to some 1,300 students in public and private schools in Hancock County. The bags were to be decorated with anti-drug messages and artwork and returned to Kmart for judging, according to Jon Ritten of the Diamondhead club.

"We wanted to get the younger children involved in a drug awareness program," said Ritten, who along with Jay Fleuriet, is co-chairman of the project.

Ritten described the cooperative effort, in which the established Bay St. Louis club provided the funds for prizes, while the fledgling Diamondhead chapter supplied the elbow grease (the 1,300 bags had to be stuffed with instruction sheets, and distributed to various locations).

The theme "Drugs, 'Not'

Today" was chosen, emphasizing the "Not," which is a popular catchphrase with pre-teens.

The decorated bags could be redeemed for a free soft drink at Kmart, and will be judged Friday afternoon at 4.

One winner will be selected from each grade in every school, said Ritten. All winners will receive $50 savings bonds.

After the judging, Kmart will distribute the decorated bags to customers, circulating the drug awareness messages throughout the community.

House fire

Shortly before 2 p.m. Wednesday, a residential fire was reported in the 4000 block of Indian Street in Shoreline Park. East Hancock Volunteer Fire Department, Bay Side Volunteer Fire Department, and the Waveland Fire Department responded. No injuries were reported. According to a report, a young man and child had just rented the house and were moving in when the fire occurred. They had left the house to pick up some of their belongings and when they returned, an unoccupied part of the house was in flames, one of the firemen on the scene said. (Photo by T.H. (Doc) Toups)

HHS cafeteria probable source of grease at wastewater plant

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The bacteria which breaks down organic materials in the Stennis Air Park Wastewater Treatment Facility is grease-laden and therefore unable to perform its work as well, reported Zoe Bretzius-Bowers, of B&B Services.

Bowers explained to Hancock

County Port and Harbor Commission Monday, March 9 that the treatment facility was still receiving high quantities of grease, which she can only assume is coming from the adjoining high school cafeteria.

"Prior to the school coming on line," she stated, "we did not have this problem."

"I believe the grease trap at the school is too small for the job needed."

Bowers stated that animal fat levels reached such high quantities recently that assistant superintendent Eddie Danzey sent a man to help physically remove multified grease from the treatment facility catch basin.

Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois reported that along with testing of the cafeteria's waters, blue prints of the area are being reviewed in search for a possible physical problem.

"Meanwhile," she added, "school food supervisor Rhea Scafidi has hired someone to address the problem through the addition of chemicals which should reduce present grease amounts leaving the school."

Bourgeois said she has been in contact with Port and Harbor Director Harold "Buz" Olsen and full cooperation is being extended by the district in solving this problem.

Anti-litter hotlines set up in Bay, county

BY TRACI BONNEY

Litter tossers be warned: people are watching. Hotlines have been implemented for people in Bay St. Louis and outside the city limits to call if they see someone toss trash out of a vehicle.

If you see someone do this, memorize or write down the vehicle's license number and call the appropriate hotline number. A recording will instruct you as to how to report the violation.

After the vehicle registration is traced, a letter will be sent by the appropriate authority to the vehicle owner. The letter does not accuse the vehicle owner of throwing the trash, but states that an occupant of a vehicle which is or was owned by that person was seen throwing trash out of the vehicle.

The letter states that no charges are being filed at the time the letter is issued, but also reminds the person that littering is illegal and carries a $250 fine.

The numbers to call are 255-6234 for a violation witnessed in Bay St. Louis, and 255-6246 for one witnessed in the county.

Beautification committee's litter-free plan starts Saturday

BY TRACI BONNEY

Saturday marks the kickoff of Hancock County's "Plan for Pride and Progress," sponsored by the Hancock County Beautification and Anti-Litter Committee.

The plan's goal and motto is "Hancock County—Litter-Free by '93."

Chamber of Commerce director Cindy Vernon said the anti-litter committee chose Saturday as the kickoff day because of its proximity to the beginning of the annual Coast-wide pilgrimage of homes and gardens.

"Betsy Ashman of Hancock Insurance is coordinating our efforts. We are encouraging groups that have adopted a stretch of highway, a road or neighborhood to clean up their adopted area in anticipation of the pilgrimage."

Ashman said, "I would like to encourage all residents that are interested in a litter-free city to come out and help Saturday."

Vernon added, "Although there is no scheduled beach cleanup, we'll be glad to supply bags for anyone who wants to do that. We'll have someone at the Chamber office from 9 to noon Saturday to hand out bags. We're asking those who pick up trash to take it either to their homes or to one of the approved trash sites throughout the county. The closest one in Bay St. Louis is at the corner of Washington and Chapman."

In the event of rain on Saturday, the cleanup will be Sunday. The Chamber will be open for bag and grabber distribution from 2 to 5 p.m. that day.

ANTI-LITTER MEETING

The anti-litter committee discussed plans for Saturday's cleanup at a Wednesday morning meeting. In addition to confirming the availability of bags from the Chamber, Vernon and Chamber president Basil Kennedy said people can purchase or borrow "litter grabbers" from the Chamber that enable a person to pick up trash — even cigarette butts — without bending over.

How far is far away?

Cross-country traveler navigates through Bay on journey to Fla.

BY T. H. (DOC) TOUPS

Roland A. Gareau, or "Le Beaux" as he prefers to be called, is a middle-aged man on a water-borne odyssey across much of America.

Though he now pilots a tiny square-sterned canoe, he began this journey three years ago at Three Forks, Montana in a similar, but different boat. According to Le Beaux, he capsize in Bismark, North Dakota, lost his boat and possessions and lived in Florida for a year to regroup and replan the trip. He then returned to Three Forks.

At the tiller of his new vessel he headed down the Missouri River once again. As I write this, he has successfully navigated as far as Bay St. Louis.

Le Beaux is a study in contrasts. He carries a supply of resumes which list a range of experiences, including auto mechanic, ski instructor and fireman.

The most recent entry, dated 1991, simply describes him as "Traveler: Active Man at Work." During our conversation he quoted Kipling and admitted, in the same sentence, that he didn't know any of his multiplication.

His resume is filled with observations he has made during his experience. One is, "Far away is far away only if you don't go there."

Le Beaux negotiated the Missouri River, entered the Mississippi and headed South. He stopped at all of the major cities along the river, and in St. Louis, Mo. converted his canoe into a lateen-rigged sailboat. This was accomplished with the addition of a homemade mast and lee boards and a plastic tarpaulin as a sail.

He admitted that between the traffic on the river and less than favorable winds, not much sailing was accomplished, though he did manage the odd respite from his paddling.

"Le Beaux" and adapted canoe

Le Beaux lacks formally-learned navigational skills and uses road maps instead of navigational charts. "I don't have to worry much about depths," he quipped.

His last stop was New Orleans for Mardi Gras. He moored his little ship at the Algiers Iron Works on the New Orleans west bank, slept on the river barge and took the ferry into the city.

In Bay St. Louis his boat went through yet another change when he added homemade pontoons on outriggers to provide more stability. Travers-ing a little open Gulf water between New Orleans and the Bay prompted that decision.

His ultimate destination is West Palm Beach County, and he intends to stay close to the coast during his voyage. Of course, it's pretty far away, but it won't be after he goes there.

No-smoking bills fail in committee

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Two House bill proposals by the Mississippi State Department of Health for restricted tobacco sales and usage died in committee on Thursday.

Health department council member Cheryl Grubbs stated, "HB 1152 called for increased penalties for selling tobacco products to minors."

She cited studies which revealed more than 3,000 teenagers start smoking every day and about 90 percent of all smokers begin prior to the age of 21.

Grubbs continued, "HB 1363 would have prohibited smoking in certain public areas, such as government buildings, health care facilities, elevators, public transportation vehicles, arenas, auditoriums and require smoking in non-smoking signs in other areas.

Waveland Ward 2 Alderman Bob Hubbard said, "I'm sorry to have heard that HB 1363 died in committee."

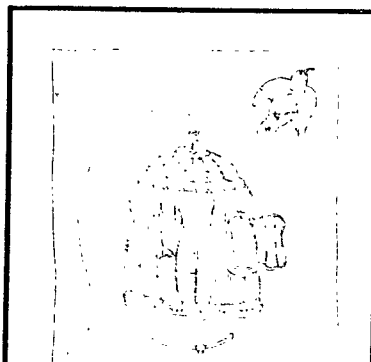

"I personally find a need for such consideration during public meetings. At our own Waveland city meetings, the non-smokers presently must suffer the discomfort of a smoke-filled room due to poor ventilation."

Hubbard is the sole non-smoking member of the Board of Aldermen.

Help needed
for cleanup

On Saturday, March 21, hundreds of Hancock Countians will be needed for a Hancock Chamber of Commerce Cleanup. The rain day is Sunday, Mar. 22, at 2 p.m.

The massive cleanup is in preparation for the annual Spring Pilgrimage, which begins on Monday.

Betsy Ashman is chairman of the cleanup day, and is asking volunteers to report to the chamber office at 9 a.m.

The office is on the service road near Carroll and Ulman Avenues, next to the Peoples Bank.

The primary task for Saturday's cleanup will be the main areas along the Pilgrimage routes.

Monday's Pilgrimage features the Welcome Center and John C. Stennis Space Center; Tuesday, Bay-Waveland area; and Wednesday, Diamondhead.

At the chamber office, bags and assignment areas will be issued.

An Adopt-A-Street or Roadway campaign is also underway, and many more residents are needed for this very important venture.

Our county is well on its way to a Litter Free '93 campaign which has been adopted by the chamber and is co-sponsored by the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

Our governmental agencies are all aware of the cost to taxpayers of litter control, and only by working together can we be Litter Free '93.

For further information, call the chamber of commerce at 467-9048.

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I have been involved in the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Beautification efforts for many years; as a matter of fact I was vice-chairman when the late Mayor Warren Carver was chairman.

In all of those years I have never seen as many people concerned about our environment and litter control. Some 20 or so years ago, Mr. Carver was mayor of the Bay and Phil Seeger was in charge of the parks and grounds in addition to other areas.

Some four ladies of the Bay joined them in a massive cleanup campaign which ended up with the city receiving a national award.

Two of these ladies, Mrs. Carol Vegas and Mrs. Betty Benvenuti, along with Seeger, are now among some 30 or 40 and more concerned residents of the county wanting to address litter.

These not to mention, our governmental agencies have to address the problem on a daily basis.

Yet, for us to be successful, we will need help from all of the residents of the county.

Won't you do your part?

Many folks are happy to hear that the sheriff's office, along with Bay and Waveland police departments, will be setting up road blocks to check for illegal vehicular tags.

The use of out-of-state tags has been a serious problem for years in Hancock County.

Many motorists feel that if they have to purchase state vehicular tags, all residents should have to do the same.

A person moving to Mississippi from another state has 30 days to purchase a tag and 60 days to purchase a Mississippi driver's license.

I realize there are many residents from other states, especially Louisiana, who own second homes in Mississippi and are weekenders, and these are not the folks I am talking about.

It is those who live here year-round, send their children to our schools and use our services and do not help to contribute by purchasing vehicular tags.

I am told there are very few exemptions for not having to purchase a Mississippi tag. If you have any doubts, I suggest you call the tax collector's office in Bay St. Louis.

By the way, when was the last time you checked the expiration date of your driver's license and vehicular inspection sticker?

The one year on vehicle inspections can pass in a hurry.

Defense cuts must be made slowly

Earlier this month I met with President Bush, Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney and Budget Director Dick Darman to voice my opposition to proposed cuts in defense spending.

Although I disagree with the recommendations presented by both the Administration and the Congress, I realize defense cuts are inevitable.

I recently voted against two budgets because cuts in defense were too extreme. I don't think large cuts are in the best interest of our nation's defense. At least, not at this time.

I think that if you look at our nation's history since 1945, we have experienced the roller coaster effect of the big World War II build up followed by the World War II draw down; the Korean buildup and the Korean drawdown; the Vietnam buildup and the Vietnam drawdown; the Reagan buildup and the Bush drawdown.

I believe the roller coaster ride our nation's industrial base has experienced for nearly 50 years is harmful to our national defense. As history has proven, maintaining a strong defense during peacetime is just as important as maintaining military superiority during times of conflict.

The roller coaster defense spending concept that has been used for decades needs to be abolished and replaced with a level of spending that will allow the U.S. to maintain its military and industrial might. If we weaken our defense, we unavoidably weaken our nation's industrial infrastructure. In turn, weakening our defense threatens our nation's ability to manufacture large quantities of military hardware in time of need.

If we are to properly proceed in reducing defense spending, we must advance slowly in determining the military spending levels which are needed for the defense of our country. I believe one large swing of the defense budget ax after another would be detrimental to national security.

Additionally, I am hopeful that my colleagues would agree that events last year strongly emphasize the need to maintain a strong military. Saddam Hussein's drive to dominate the Persian Gulf was as much of a threat to the worldwide economy as it was to global security.

Currently, the House Armed Services Committee, of which I am a member, is in the process of looking at seven proposals to live within the Congressionally mandated and administratively approved budget reductions. However, no matter what the final proposal, I am confident we will be able to preserve South Mississippi's vital military installations and our leading defense industries.

LETTERS TO
THE EDITORYouth must be saved from joining gangs

Dear Editor,

What's it going to take? I cry wondering how long will we put blinders on?

A kid sat in my office today and explained pictures he drew of a gang he is so proud to be a part of. They are called "The Gangsters." Of course their opponents are called the Vice Lords.

What's happening Mr. Editor? Why don't our children have faith in good or evil; have faith in their families; and have faith in their church?

Take Jesus Christ out of their lives and the only miracle worker they have left is Satan, the father of lies and deception.

We were warned a few years back when we found kids were sacrificing small animals and birds on some beach property. But, most of us, including some ministers said, "Well, kids will be kids."

I blame the Christians even more than Satan, because they have the power to stop this, but most do nothing. Sunday they go to service, have chicken dinner, and then say, "See you next week."

In only one week, I find just one gang alone has more than 300 members. Listen up folks! Are your kids some of them?

It took a fire and deaths to get us a new jail. What will it take to make us know our kids and youth are worth all the fight we have in us?

I'm one tired Christian. Tired of excuses from all directions as to why we can't do anything. Well, I don't believe it, and I do believe that each of our children is worth all we've got and all heaven's got to stop these blood thirsty gangs from grabbing up our kids.

Kids, there are ways out! All these gangs are built on lies and deceit. If you want out, we stand ready to help you. We'll fight all of hell if need be, and all of hell knows it. Call us. You don't even have to give your name until you want to. Let's talk.

You are loved!

Unwanted, neglected
children are cruellest sin

Dear Editor:

Your columnist writing "A Different View" (March 15, March 9) poses the term "Youology," which, I believe, is a contraction dreamed up for the specific situation she described in her column. Now I won't try putting down Reader's Digest, but I believe your writer has some facts confused. And I won't go into mathematical pyramid population.

Before I go into some REAL facts, I refer your writer and others to a letter on page A-7, The Sun Herald, March 16, 1992 entitled, "Children Already Born Need Help Even More," by R. Joshua Murry of Biloxi.

Statistics tell us that there are 6.4 million babies born who become those who are homeless, neglected, sexually and physically and psychologically abused whom nobody can possibly care for, feed, or even love as a normal family child naturally is! There isn't enough food available or persons available able to care for them!

Few would argue that crime isn't already out of control with disaster knocking at the gate!

Murder, rape, drugs, child abuse, armed robbery, teen suicides, burglary, teen gangs, extortion, felonious assault—all are a sad fact of life today whether you live in urban cities or rural countryside. Each of us is vulnerable as a potential victim of this growing epidemic!

Judges and politicians wring their hands and exclaim, "We've no place to put them! We need more jails and prisons. We actually have to release violently-dangerous perverts and criminals to walk the streets because we haven't enough room to put new offenders away!"

Where do all of these criminals evolve from? They finally evolve from the hordes of "accidents"—"unwanted babies," those generated by ignorant, irresponsible, uneducated teenagers or careless adults out for a "little fun" or a "quick thrill."

The pro-lifers say they will love and care for them. This has to be the understatement of the century!

Actually, a few organizations have involved themselves in providing care and help for some such as the retarded and malformed, but while some few have had token success, many have failed. There are just too many to feed and care for, and some are dangerous.

I have, for many years been involved in caring for hungry, homeless and needy children—even taking into my home several sexually and badly physically-abused children. I've provided loving care as best I could to try to give them some happiness in a careless world. Many were successful but a few were hopeless.

Foster children are moved around from one home to another, even separating brothers and sisters because some homes won't take all of them into their premises for various reasons. These spend the rest of their lives trying to find each other. It's really sad—heart-breaking!

I've also served on advisory boards of social services in Maryland for eight years and have gained first-hand experience with many of the problems. Of course I've also raised with real love and care my own family.

While I'm not an outright advocate of abortion, I believe in prevention through good education in family responsibility, discipline and love; the providing of proper contraceptives and instructions in their use to prevent disease and unwanted pregnancies. If an accidental pregnancy occurs and it's unwanted, then offer legal abortion performed with the first two months at a hygienic clinic. I hope we never have to experience again the horrid tragedies of "back-alley" butchers who kill and maim many frightened teen mothers.

I believe it is the cruellest sin of all to bring into this world unwanted babies who will be neglected and abused. Children should be part of responsible married families!

Sincerely,

Paul D. Gilbert

Compretta deserves support of sport fishermen

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to an article written by Sun Herald Outdoor Editor, John Lambeth, on March 15, 1992.

Mr. Lambeth attacked a Bill by State Representative J. P. Compretta, that would lower the minimum length on speckled trout to 12" and 16" on redfish. In his article, Mr. Lambeth repeatedly uses the word "we" while attacking the House Bill. Did Mr. Lambeth write this article alone? Does "we" mean the Sun Herald, Joe Gill, or is this Mr. Lambeth's own view?

Mr. Compretta to the 'everyday Joe fisherman' has become somewhat of a hero. He is the first and only politician to listen to the people who fish trout and redfish strictly for feeding their families and not to sell for profit. Mr. Lambeth and his select little group are so far removed from reality and common sense that he will attack anyone who disagrees with him.

One quote in Mr. Lambeth's article says redfish are back because of good management by State Wildlife and Fisheries. Any fisherman in this zip code knows the reason the redfish

What is your opinion of the congressional check bouncing scandal?

"I think it is more of the bank's fault. They don't give the same opportunity to ordinary citizens. If they would have exercised the same procedures for the congressmen as they do for everyone else, it would never have gotten so far out of hand."

Rhonda Labat
Bay St. Louis

"I think the congressmen were wrong. It may not have been a real bank but they should have more responsibility for their own affairs. Why should they be entitled to that kind of privilege when it's not available to other people. One question I have not heard answered is, 'Who paid the salary of the man who ran the bank?'"

Ellen James
Bay St. Louis

"They should be held accountable, everyone else is. They make enough money so that they should not have to bounce checks."

Greg Kothmann
Bay St. Louis

"I think they ought to be penalized. Ordinary citizens can't do it."

James Hamilton
Bay St. Louis

"Well, if they run their governmental responsibilities as they do their check books, I hate to think of the consequences."

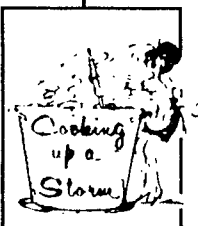

Rhett Hamiter

"I think it's disgraceful. The bank is established and maintained by the federal government. Why should they not pay for a bounced check the same as you and I."

Ouida Parker

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

Happy St. Joseph's Day to you! If you haven't already visited a St. Joseph's Altar along the Coast, search out one; and be sure to bring home a fava bean for luck, at least!

Bountifully laden altars to the patron saint have been in the making for weeks at various churches and homes. The tradition started in Italy years ago after a famine, during which the Italians prayed for a good harvest, and promised thanks to God.

It was at a St. Joseph's Altar long ago in New Orleans, I think, that I first tasted those wonderfully garlicky-cheesy stuffed artichoke delights which I have enjoyed and cooked up ever since! And, you may be sure that I've stuffed a couple today. All sorts of Italian pastries are also piled upon the altars on this day, along with mountains of other good edibles, for the tasting. And, when it's over, of course, the food is given to the poor.

Italian cuisine has given us many, many tasty recipes and culinary ways, hasn't it? Such as broccoli! It is only in comparatively recent times that many cooks in this country have learned to savor the goodness of broccoli, although it's been a favorite in Italy and in Greece for more than 2,000 years, so we are told. Also, Thomas Jefferson grew broccoli at Monticello in the early 19th century; but in recipe books printed at the turn of our century, there are few mentions of broccoli—or "brokka," somewhat like asparagus—as I think that I remember seeing in an old cookbook.

Italian families brought seeds of broccoli with them when they came to America; and soon the green clusters of buds sprouted here and there in the environs of New York and Boston long before this vegetable was known and used by the country as a whole. It wasn't until the early 1920's that commercial growers began the production and distribution of broccoli in America.

I can never be sure which way I like broccoli best—sliced, raw, in green salads or on a tray as part of a tray of crudites or raw vegetables, served with a tangy or creamy or other dip at appetizer time, or in a stir-fry, or briefly steamed and lemon-drenched, or in a cheesy casserole—or in so many other ways.

You may, of course, use frozen broccoli for easier-on-the-cook dishes; but, to me it doesn't approach the taste of fresh broccoli. For an easy luncheon or supper dish, try:

BROCCOLI SWISS STRATA

(Stratas are layered dishes which cook into something resembling a lazy-day souffle or puffy omelette, that is, most of the time. If it sinks, call it your "Fallen Angel Souffle" or something else.)

8 slices bread, on the firm side

1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
2 cups broccoli, briefly cooked, chopped and drained
4 large eggs
2 cups milk

Dashes of pepper, hot pepper sauce, salt as desired

Parmesan cheese for topping
Arrange first 4 slices of bread (crusts removed or not as you prefer) in a lightly greased baking dish, and sprinkle with half the cheese and broccoli. Repeat layers. Whisk together the eggs, milk, seasonings, and pour over the top, then sprinkle liberally with the cheese.

At this point, refrigerate the dish for a few hours or overnight, so that it will puff up more; but, if you're pressed for time, an hour or two will suffice. At any rate, when you're ready, bake the casserole in a 350-degree oven for an hour, or until the proverbial knife comes out clean when inserted into the center or near it. I prefer a grain bread, but you may use white bread or whatever else you wish. (Four servings)

In addition to several committee members, six representatives of Operation Wakeup attended Wednesday's meeting.

Operation Wakeup was started by several young residents of the area around the Martin Luther King Park. The Operation Wakeup members are working to keep the park clean and spread awareness to their neighbors of the need to keep their neighborhoods litter-free.

The six who attended the meeting said they plan to participate in the cleanup Saturday, and to recruit whatever other help they can.

Several members of the anti-litter committee and Operation Wakeup stressed the need for follow-up maintenance after the weekend cleanup.

"The beautification committee urges all business owners and residents countywide to pick up any trash that is thrown after the cleanup," committee chairman Ellis Cuevas said.

If Mr. Lambeth was the true conservationist he likes to portray himself as, he would be using his influence to ban the true culprit, the gill net.

Robert Vonture; 1600 meter relay — Leroy Hawkins, Brad Laneaux, Phillip Summers, Ronald Lewis, Michael Price and Albert Ellis.

Coach Rocky Gaudin commented, "We are entering into as many meets as we could possibly get into this year and are going to have to work very hard to make a good showing in each."

"We don't have a real track of our own to use, but by using our practice football field and going up to Hancock High to use their facilities two days a week for the last three weeks, we hope to be ready."

"I would like to thank their administration for allowing us to use their place. The squad and coaches truly believe that what we can accomplish in our track program will benefit the other sports that many of the track squad members also participate in, as well as benefiting the track team itself."

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

Turtles (and others), take heart: Fishin' time is about to start

It's time to go fishin' y'all. The weather this past week has been — dare I use the word? — outstanding and otherwise excellent. This is the kind of weather that makes the fish flow in the old turtle. The fish are out there. You can feel them in your shell. You can see your float disappearing under a vicious strike from one of those fish with the spots. The ringing of the drag fills your ears every time you close your eyes.

Your wife is casting looks or way that are about to get a little serious. Those looks either mean that the "honey-do" list is out to expand greatly or that your nervous fidgeting is about to drive the spouse out of her mind.

Being a long-winded and usually slow turtle, I tried to do this week's topic off for as long as possible.

This week's topic: You better see your blooming equipment PDQ, I mean like in a hurry.

The really good fishin' is just a few short weeks away, and if you keep putting off your pre-season cleaning and maintenance, you're gonna find that the black bird of "Whoa-is-me" is gonna be a regular visitor to your fishin' fun.

Let's start with the boat: Did you empty the gas tank or otherwise get the water out of the tank? Did you clean the filter screens on both the gas tank and the carb of your engine? Did you check and clean the filter on your VRO unit? (I burnt a cylinder last year from a clogged screen in my VRO oil storage unit.)

Check your steering system. On those systems that have through-the-engine mount mechanical steering, it is a good idea to take the rod completely out, clean it good, grease the shaft and fill the mount with grease before reassembling.

Check your battery water, and your connections for corrosion. If your battery fully charged?

Most importantly of all, check and make sure all of your safety equipment is working like it should.

Are the bearings on your trailer clean and full of grease? What about the condition of the spare tire?

Now for the rods, reels and good stuff: Did you replace your line? Sharpen all hooks? Make sure all the ferules and snug and secure on your rods? Make sure the rod tip is firmly in place? Clean and oil your reels?

Man, after all of this work maybe the "honey-do" list is starting to look good.... Naw.

Meanwhile, back at the water: I can't remember as many mullet jumping in the past as I have seen in the past few weeks. The mullet are small, but they are everywhere. It makes me wonder just how much damage the seawall gill netting that BMR allowed for years did to all the fish along the seawall.

I am sure most people remember that our Legislature, under the guidance of Representative Compretta, put a stop to the practice of seawall gill netting.

It sure is interesting that the mullet are making a strong comeback just one year after the seawall gill netting was stopped by our Legislature. We can only hope that the rest of the fish will start to come back now that they are being allowed to lay their eggs in shallow water as nature intended.

A real interesting thing has happened in the state of Texas: The trout and redbellies are coming back in record numbers, since gill nets were banned from inshore waters, according to the Texas Department of Wildlife and Fisheries. I wonder why our own BMR has no "scientific" evidence like Texas?

Louisiana and the LDW&F allows a 12-inch speck to be caught and has a commercial limit on specks. BMR claims that even though Mississippi and Louisiana have adjoining waters, specks are endangered, yet there is no commercial limit on specks in Mississippi and sportsmen are required to keep only trout that are larger than 14 inches.

I truly understand why our legislators are trying to make some sense out of this mess, because it looks like BMR is just adding to the confusion.

This week's wonderful wise words: The Legislature usually responds to the will of the people in a democracy. It takes courage.

Thanks, Representative Compretta, from the turtle.

Bay Theatre unveils renovations this weekend

BY JANET MCQUEEN
Theatre-goers are invited to the "new" playhouse on Boardman Avenue.

During the past 18 months, the little red building has been equipped with modern amenities. Among the obvious are new roof and exterior siding, carpet and furnishings for the lobby, stage flats and side curtains and an improved P.A. system.

Not meeting the eye are new insulation, electrical wiring and telephone service.

By far the most requested improvement was central air-conditioning, which was donated by Dan Young, husband of Bay St. Louis Little Theatre president Carol Young. Additional renovation work was paid from the proceeds of various plays presented last year.

To defray the cost of unpaid expenses, ticket prices have been raised to $7.50, from $5.

The finishing touches were applied a few days ago, just in time for this weekend's production of Rumors, directed by Becky Rotundo.

Bobby Shubert, Kathleen Fischer and Martin Booda

BSLLT presents Rumors

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will present Neil Simon's Rumors Friday and Saturday, March 20, 21, 27 and 28. Curtain time is 8 p.m.; admission is $7.50.

Rumors is a comedy whodunnit, directed by Becky Rotundo, that tells the story of a couple celebrating their 10th anniversary at their large Victorian house in Sneden's Landing, N.Y. The guests arrive to find that their host has been shot and his wife has disappeared.

The cast includes Sandy Higdon, Martin Booda, Clem Acker and Debbie Wolf, all veterans of the BSLLT stage. Also in the cast are newcomers Steve Burtch, Jeanette Murphy, Kathleen Fischer, Bobby Schubert, Doc Toups and Amanda Acker.

Nan Ehrbright and Carla Clayton are in charge of props, properties and sets. Dick Ehrbright designed the play poster and Jim Jones is the technical chairman.

"The Hancock County Board of Supervisors, Buz Olson, port director and commission directors are to be commended for their efforts and cooperation in securing this loan. Port Bienville Industrial Park is rapidly becoming a key site for prospective business and industry," added Occhi.

Patsy and Herb Dubuisson, owners of ERA Bayshore Realty in Waveland, attended the 20th ERA Real Estate national convention in Las Vegas.

A highlight was a preview of a direct marketing campaign to boost consumer awareness of local brokers' services. The ERA Moving Machine lets offices send and receive digitized color photos and information from the national listing database.

Also introduced was the ERA Top Gun Academy, a training program for members who increased productivity by an average of more than 500 percent during test courses.

Big B announces earnings

Big B Inc. announced it had achieved record sales and earnings for its fourth quarter.

Net earnings for the 14 weeks which ended Feb. 1, 1992, rose 32.9 percent to $3,263,000 from $2,455,000 on record sales of $139,966,000. Earnings per share for the quarter rose to $.43 from $.33 in the prior year. For the year ended Feb. 1,

1992, earnings rose to $6,542,000 or $.86 per share, returning to normal profit levels from a prior year loss of $1,465,000 or $.19 per share. The significant improvement in earnings resulted from an overall improvement in store operating profits, the closing of underperforming store units, and efficiencies gained from consolidating distribution centers into the newly expanded 440,000 square foot Bessemer, Alabama location.

Expressing continued confidence in Big B's future potential the board of directors announced a 25 percent increase in the quarterly dividend to $.05 per share which will be payable April 3, 1992, to shareholders of record on March 20, 1992.

Some oyster reefs opened Tuesday, others remain closed

Oyster reefs south of Pass Christian opened for harvest at 7 a.m. Tuesday, March 17, Bureau of Marine Resources officials say.

This area includes Pass Marianne and Telegraph reefs. All other Mississippi public reefs will remain closed.

This area was closed because of excessive rainfall on Feb. 17.

Excessive rainfall and strong north winds can cause sewage-related bacteria to flow onto oyster reefs. If eaten by humans, oysters contaminated by sewage may cause such diseases as cholera and hepatitis.

The area reopened because recent water samples showed that bacteria has reached acceptable levels to allow harvest.

However, rains may force another closure of these reefs, said John Cirino, BMR shellfish coordinator.

Free CPR classes offered

CPR classes will be offered Friday, March 20 at 7 p.m. at the Farm Bureau building on Highway 603, Kiln.

There is no charge to participate.

Diekema home

Diamondhead rolls out the welcome mat to visitors Wednesday, March 25 for its annual Spring Pilgrimage. Chairmen are Mrs. William King and Mrs. Joseph Kolb. Hostesses will be members of the Diamondhead Garden Club. The Diamondhead Community Center is the first stop on the tour, which runs from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Maps will be available.

A special dutch treat luncheon buffet will be served at the country club from 11 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Reservations are not needed.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kolb
6448 Apelehama Road

Designed and built by Mr. Kolb, this Acadian-style home is nestled among stately trees. Visitors will be delighted with the kitchen, informal dining and family room, as well as with the openness of formal areas. The home is light and airy, with unique wall groupings, a large deck, and spacious garden areas.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Diekema
La Casita, 7607 Fairway Drive

Completed in 1989, this two-story neo-classical home was designed by Mr. Diekema, a registered architect. Large white columns, complemented by white marble floors greet visitors as they enter this unique home. The library as well as the English-type billiard room feature custom cabinetry by Mr. Diekema. Artwork throughout the home includes paintings and sculpture by Mrs. Diekema.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bozant
6436 Apelehama Road

This unique home reflects the family unity so important to this young couple. Building the home was a "labor of love" as they performed the work. Many materials were obtained from a New Orleans Turn-of-the-Century home which they razed. Furnishings are from the Victorian and Turn-of-the-Century eras. A deck and gazebo complement the home.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Dyer
6644 Ahekolā Circle

Designed and built by a prominent local builder, this home is elegant, while providing a relaxed, informal atmosphere. Elegance is expressed in foyer columns, large crown moldings, a raised dining room, and master suite with Texas-sized bathroom. The home is decorated with white Italian leather furniture, adobe tables, pickled oak and white wicker. A view of the lovely landscape is seen from the breakfast room.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Couret
7810 Maui Court

This attractive home was designed by the owner's son. Built for informal entertainment, the living room is accentuated by cathedral ceilings, wet bar and stone fireplace. At the rear of the living room, a spacious "garden room" provides a view of Maui Pond. A covered deck rests at the pond bank. Antiques and special custom-made crafts will delight visitors.

The Gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Sully Kahn
6490 Kalapekōna Way

The mature plantings in this garden provide texture, size and shape. Visitors are greeted by hedges and large plantings of azaleas, spirea, camellias, ferns, etc. A rear patio overlooks a "natural" setting which offers a blending of statuary, decorative rock, bird feeders, fountains and potted plants—all under a cover of elegant native trees.

The Gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Russo
96491 Diamondhead Drive West

Groupings of plantings around the front entry and side yards in these two-year-old gardens provide a blend of azaleas, heather, caladiums, coleus, holly, dusty miller, etc. Adding to the effect are native oaks, flowering pear and an apple tree. The rear yard bordering the golf course is accentuated by an area "left to nature." The owners are numbered among the recipients of the coveted "Garden of the Month" award of the Diamondhead Garden Club.

GCRL offers hands-on marine science courses

Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs will offer 12 marine science courses this summer, according to Dr. David W. Cook, assistant director for administration and academics.

Courses scheduled include Marine Science I (Oceanography), Marine Science II (Marine Biology), Marine Invertebrate Zoology, Marine Ecology, Comparative Histology of Marine Organisms, Marine Phycology, Coastal Ecology for Teachers, Marine Microbiology, Marine Ichthyology, Salt Marsh Plant Ecology, Coastal Marine Geology and Early Life History of Marine Fishes.

Individualized study opportunities are also available for students interested in a particular marine science subject area not covered in this summer's formal courses.

GCRL, administered by the University of Southern Mississippi, offers educational, research and service opportunities to over 50 affiliated institutions in Mississippi and 14 other states. Credits earned by students at GCRL will be transferred from USM to their home institutions upon course completion. Most courses may be taken for either undergraduate or graduate credit.

GCRL's 10-week, two-term summer program enables students to earn up to 12 semester hours of credit each summer. Students may enroll in only one course each term to allow full attention to that course. Classes usually meet each day during the week, with particular times scheduled for field trips, classroom instruction and laboratory work.

Students are offered a unique opportunity to enhance classroom experiences through field studies which allow study of plants and animals in their natural habitats. Most classes take weekly trips aboard the 40 ft. M/V. Hermes or the 98 ft. oceanographic research vessel Tommy Munro to explore local waters and collect study specimens.

Most instructors are members of the GCRL research faculty and offer extensive field knowledge along with laboratory and classroom experience. Classes are generally small, with less than 15 students.

GCRL courses are marine science in content, but are not limited to students majoring in the marine sciences. Courses are open to all qualified students who wish to broaden their initial training gained in basic science courses.

Registration deadline is April 30. For additional information, contact the GCRL Office of Student Services, P.O. Box 7000, Ocean Springs, MS 39564-7000 or call 872-4201.

Chapter I computer laboratory helps parents to assist students

BY T. H. (DOC) TOUPS

Charles B. Murphy Elementary School was the scene of a Chapter I program meeting last Monday evening in Pearlington.

Hancock County Superintendent of Education Myrna Bourgeois, Chapter I director Gaynell Roberts and parent coordinator Rose Acker were in attendance, as well as several parents.

The Chapter I program is a federally-funded education program for academically disadvantaged students. Chapter I stresses parental involvement in a student's education.

Charles B. Murphy currently features a computer laboratory which is made available to the parents to use, through the program. The parents are then able to assist with the pupil's curriculum.

Bourgeois, commenting on parental involvement through Chapter I's "Parents as Partners" program said, "Schools are our best hope of preserving the American way."

"Schools will help to reconstruct the family, though in a nontraditional way."

Chapter I operates in all Hancock County schools, though only Charles B. Murphy currently has the computer program. Bourgeois said she hopes to see it implemented throughout the county within a year.

PUBLIC NOTICE

There came on for consideration the matter of issuing special obligation, negotiable, interest-bearing combined water and fire protection system revenue bonds of the Kiln Water and Fire Protection District, and after a discussion of the subject matter, Commissioner Royce Shiyou offered and moved the adoption of the following resolution:

A RESOLUTION DECLARING THE INTENTION OF THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS OF THE KILN WATER AND FIRE PROTECTION DISTRICT TO ISSUE COMBINED WATER AND FIRE PROTECTION SYSTEM REVENUE BONDS OF SAID DISTRICT IN THE MAXIMUM PRINCIPAL AMOUNT OF ONE HUNDRED TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS ($120,000) TO RAISE MONEY FOR THE PURPOSE OF RECONSTRUCTING, IMPROVING, BETTERING AND EXTENDING THE COMBINED WATER AND FIRE PROTECTION SYSTEM OF SAID DISTRICT CONSISTING PRIMARILY OF RECONSTRUCTING, IMPROVING, BETTERING AND EXTENDING THE WATER DISTRIBUTION PORTION OF THE SYSTEM.

WHEREAS, the Board of Commissioners of the Kiln Water and Fire Protection District (the "Board"), acting for and on behalf of the District, hereby finds, determines, adjudicates and declares as follows:

1. The waterworks, water supply and fire protection facilities of the District have heretofore been combined and are operated as a combined system known as the combined water and fire protection system (the "System") of the District.

2. It is necessary and advisable and in the best interest of the District and its inhabitants to issue combined water and fire protection system revenue bonds of the District in the maximum principal amount of One Hundred Twenty Thousand Dollars ($120,000) to raise money for the purpose of reconstructing, improving, bettering and extending the System, consisting primarily of reconstructing, improving, bettering and extending the water distribution portion of the System, for which purpose there are no other available funds on hand.

3. The Board has employed Garner Russell & Associates, Inc., Gulfport, Mississippi, a competent engineering firm, to study the System, determine the nature and extent of the improvements, repairs and extensions necessary thereto, and make an estimate of the cost thereof.

4. Said engineering firm has determined the nature and extent of the necessary improvements, repairs and extensions to the system and has made an estimate of the cost thereof, which estimate is the aggregate amount of One Hundred Twenty Thousand Dollars ($120,000).

5. Said improvements, repairs and extensions are necessary, are economically feasible and would be in the public interest and of benefit to the District, and the findings of said engineering firm are hereby adopted, including the estimate of the costs of said improvements, repairs and extensions to the System.

6. Under the provisions of Sections 19-5-151 through 19-5-207, Mississippi Code of 1972, as amended (the "Act"), the District is authorized to make such improvements, repairs and extensions to the System and to provide for the payment of the costs thereof, or any portion of such costs, by and through the issuance of bonds, the principal of and interest on which shall be payable solely from the revenues of the System.

7. A sum not exceeding One Hundred Twenty Thousand Dollars ($120,000) must be provided and raised by the issuance of special obligation bonds in said amount, payable both as to principal and interest solely from the revenues of the System, as authorized by the Act.

If a petition signed by not less than twenty percent (20%) or one hundred fifty (150), whichever is the lesser, of the qualified electors of the District be filed objecting to and protesting the issuance of such revenue bonds on or before the aforesaid date and hour, then an election on the question of the issuance of such bonds shall be called and held as provided by law. If no such protest be filed, then such bonds may be issued without an election on the question of the issuance thereof, and may be sold in the manner provided in the Act.

SECTION 3. This resolution shall be published once a week for at least three (3) consecutive weeks in the Sea Coast Echo, a newspaper published in the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, no newspaper being published in the District, and having a general circulation in the District, and being a qualified newspaper under the provisions of Section 13-3-31, Mississippi Code of 1972; the first publication shall be made not less than twenty-one (21) days prior to the date of such hearing and the last such publication shall be made not more than fourteen (14) days prior to the date specified in Section 2 hereof.

Regaining memories

BY TRACI BONNEY

For incest survivor "Anne Marie", God and SIA are lifelines to recovery.

Anne Marie (not her real name) is a local resident who survived several years of childhood sexual abuse by at least three people. She said one abuser was the father of a friend, and the other two were from within her own family structure.

"I believe my recovery is dependent totally on God and on my obedience to him. I wouldn't have gotten this far without him."

Anne Marie, 48, spoke of the abuse for the first time only a year ago.

"I'm not sure when the abuse started. I think it occurred from the ages of 7 to 11, but my therapist — I'm in private therapy as well as the SIA group — thinks I learned to block (events from my memory) before I was six."

"Right now, my biggest issue is getting back my missing memory pieces."

Anne Marie writes poetry. Many of her past poems reflected the kind of pain and fear caused by sexual abuse, and caused her to take a look at the possible reasons she was writing them.

She said God has taken her recovery much farther, much faster, than she could ever have come on her own, and when other members of the newly-organized Survivors of Incest Anonymous ask her why she has gotten so far on a particular issue, she always tells them, "It's God that's doing it."

For instance, when she confronted two of the abusers (the third has died since Anne Marie's childhood), the results were unexpected.

"It wasn't like what you hear about with most confrontations. Usually, the abuser will deny ever having done anything, or will try to blame the victim."

"With my case, one of the abusers admitted that it had happened, asked my forgiveness and asked if there were anything he could do to help me in my recovery. The other abuser said he didn't remember doing it, but told me if I were remembering it, it must have happened. He, too, told me he was sorry and offered to do anything he could to help."

"When I told my therapist about it, she said that just reaction doesn't happen. But it did."

"I don't know why God chose this time to bring this discount the positive effects of the SIA group."

"I think the support group has advanced my recovery a lot. It helps to be able to talk with others who know exactly what you've been through and how it affected you."

The local SIA group generally has anywhere from two

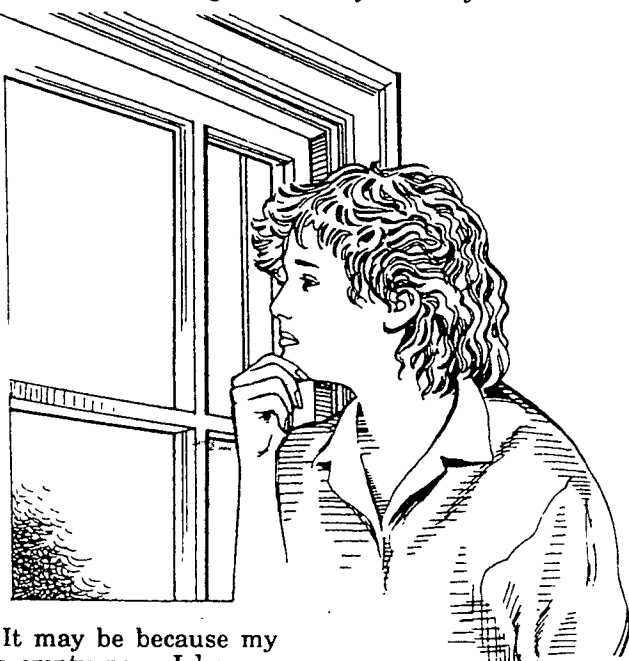

No one under 18 is admitted to the group, and so far those attending have ranged from 21 to 51 years old. A lending library of self-help books is available to group members, and the group often watches shows or movies that members tape because they think someone could benefit from the contents.

Although this was Anne Marie's first interview on the subject, it was not her first media exposure. She was recently on the Angela show in New Orleans as an audience member, and was able to ask the show's guests a question about missing memories and how to recover them.

Anne Marie acknowledges that she is not completely recovered yet.

"I have a lot of unfinished business," she stated. "But with God and SIA, I know I will recover my memories and get my healing."

Survivors of Incest Anonymous, a support group for survivors of childhood sexual abuse by a family member or other authority figure, meets weekly. The group meets Wednesdays, 1:30 p.m. at Bayou Phillips Community Center on Hwy. 90 west of Waveland. For more information, call Susan (Kathy) Boudreaux at 466-3459 or Barbara at 255-1092.

forth. It may be because my nest is empty now. I have three sons — ages 26, 25 and 22 — and they're all on their own now.

"Also, with all the media exposure in recent years, many survivors now are able to speak out, and to open those doors to their memories."

She credited a book, A Door of Hope by Jan Frank, for helping her begin to face her issues, and said her husband and sons are supportive, although they don't understand everything she is struggling with in her recovery.

When you talk to Anne Marie, she gives God the credit for the rapid rate of her recovery, but she doesn't to nine people attending, Anne Marie said. She and co-founder Susan (Kathy) Boudreaux also receive many phone calls from people who have survived childhood sexual abuse, but are not ready to attend a group meeting.

LIVE THE LEGEND!

On April 24th, American ship-master Captain Joshua Slocum embarked from the port of Boston, Massachusetts in his 36' sloop the Spray, a converted oyster boat. On June 27th, 1898, he dropped anchor at Newport, Rhode Island to become the first man to single-handedly circumnavigate the world. Captain Slocum and the Spray were lost in a gale off Martha's Vineyard on November 14, 1909.

In Bay St. Louis, everybody is familiar with the dog ordinance which was framed and approved by the present administration. It was thought the ordinance would rid the city of its curs running all over the streets.

There still is a large number of dogs running wild without licenses. The Echo and the community wants to know whose job it is to enforce the ordinance.

The city must do one or the other — see that the ordinance is enforced or money refunded those whom were made to pay.

The Sea Coast Echo is there.
